The American Missionary

Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of this earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength. Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall: but they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.

WANTS.

1. A steady INCREASE of income to keep pace with the imperative demand of work. This increase can be reached only by regular and larger contributions from the churches, the feeble as well as the strong.

2. ADDITIONAL BUILDINGS for our educational institutions are needed to receive the constantly increasing number of students; MEETING HOUSES for the new churches we are organizing; MORE MINISTERS, educated and devoted, for these churches.

3. FUNDS FOR INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENTS—to purchase implements for agricultural training; to erect shops and furnish tools and materials for instruction and use in the mechanical arts, for carpenters, blacksmiths, tinmen, harness and shoemakers; and to supply the girls' industrial rooms.

4. Our work in Porto Rico calls for a school building at Santurce. It is necessary to successful work. This is exceptionally important.

FINANCIAL.

The receipts for the ten months ending July 31st show an increase in donations of $9,037.10, and a decrease in legacies of $2,626.30, a net increase of $6,410.80.

The debt on the current year to July 31st is $31,706.19.

The analysis of donations for the ten months ending July 31st, indicates the channels through which the gifts from the living have reached the treasury.

The increase in individual gifts is $11,364.85 and in Women's Societies $1,929.46, total $13,294.31. The decrease in Church contributions is $1,434.24; in Sunday Schools $1,725.15; and in Young People's Societies $217.57, and in other societies $880.25, total $4,257.21.

While we are encouraged by the individual gifts and the contributions from the Women's Societies, we are very desirous that the Church contributions and the contributions from the Sunday Schools and the Young People's Societies shall show a generous increase over last year.

The donations received to July 31st were $165,065.58. The donations necessary in August and September to complete the $250,000.00 needed this fiscal year are $84,934.42.

We trust that there will be an earnest effort to contribute this amount, and relieve the Association from debt on this current year.

THE LAST MONTH.

SECRETARY CHARLES J. RYDER.

September is the last month of the fiscal year of the American Missionary Association. On the previous page of this issue of the magazine a financial statement is made concerning the facts to the date of going to press. At the close of the first six months we called attention in these pages to the hopeful results and pointed out the fact that there was still danger of a deficit. We recognize the generosity of the churches and individuals in the gifts placed in our treasury during the year. The work, however, of the American Missionary Association has outgrown its income. The greatest care is exercised by the Executive Committee and officers in selecting the most hopeful and promising fields. This work is systematically and economically developed. Its very prosperity involves an increase in the amount necessary for its support. Notwithstanding the generosity of those contributing and the economy of administration there is pressing need of increased gifts during this last month or the work must seriously suffer.

A few dollars sent at once will accomplish important results. Note the following :

From two hundred dollars up the salary of a minister supplying a needy church is met. Four hundred dollars will support a teacher in an A. M. A. school for an entire year. A native evangelist in Porto Rico costs but three hundred dollars. A Japanese missionary in Hawaii may be supported for from three to five hundred dollars. A Chinese missionary on the Pacific Slope may be provided for by sending the treasurer of the A. M. A. one to three hundred dollars designated for this purpose.

Black Mountain Academy depends for its support largely upon Sunday-school contributions. Pledges of twenty-five dollars are needed immediately.

Christian Endeavor Hall, Blanche Kellogg Institute, Santurce, Porto Rico, demands four thousand dollars for its completion. Individual checks are solicited for any amount for this important object.

As you read this statement of need will you not make it a personal matter to respond according to the measure of your ability, that the A. M. A. may enter upon the new fiscal year, October first, with increased financial ability to do the work needed?

Possibly your church has contributed during the year and the check for the contribution has not been forwarded. Will you not see that it reaches the treasurer before the close of September, the last month of this fiscal year?

CONDITIONAL GIFTS.

The Conditional Gift Plan of the American Missionary Association is very simple, yet it assures to the individual making the gift, or to some other person named by the individual, an annual sum in semi-annual payments during life of person designated.

There are many persons who in their lifetime desire that their money shall be placed in the treasury of the American Missionary Association for missionary purposes. Our plan fully provides for this, and is entirely satisfactory to those who have made the gifts and received the bond of the Association to make the payments as designated. In some cases, where two persons are dependent upon the same income, provision may be made for its continuance to the one who survives the other.

Some of the advantages of this plan :

First.—It assures an annual sum during life, payable semi-annually.

Second.—This annual amount is fully as much as can be assured from any safe investment in these days of fluctuating values.

Third.—It relieves the donor from care and anxiety as to the investment of money.

Fourth.—It places the money in the treasury of the Association while the donor is living.

Fifth.—The financial record of the Association and its business methods give abundant security to all donors who find it desirable to make gifts under this plan.

The payments of the Association upon these gifts have always been made strictly in accordance with the terms of the bond. From every side the Association's promptness in this respect has received the cordial acknowledgment of donors without exception, and the plan has been most satisfactory to all who have made such gifts to the Association in support of its great missionary work.

For further information correspond with H. W. Hubbard, Treas.

A MINISTER whose salary was $1,800, out of sympathy with his beleaguered congregation sought to save them from the incursion of missionary secretaries; so, instead of urging them to do their utmost for Home Missions, he merely "announced" the offering. The missionary offering was very small and it took a long time to gather it in and send it to the office. The congregation was not inspired by the procedure, and seemed to lose interest in all features of the work. That year they had difficulty in raising the salary, and the next year his salary was reduced to $1,500, and the next year the minister sought a new field.—American Home Missionary.

TRANSFER OF OUR SCHOOL AT WILLIAMSBURG, KY.

Williamsburg Academy, one of the earlier schools of the Association, in the Southern Mountains, was begun in 1881. At that time there were no opportunities for the education of mountain youth in this part of Eastern Kentucky, such as this Academy proposed to afford. The school building was a wooden structure, erected by the carpenters of the vicinity, without the aid of an architect, and, though imperfectly constructed and in many respects inadequate, was superior to any other edifice for educational purposes in Whitley County. A girls' dormitory was next erected. The boys lived as best they might, mostly in a house hired for their accommodation. Though the buildings and appointments would have been considered somewhat rude as compared with schools of like intent in New England, they were sufficiently advanced in that region to justify considerable local pride in them.

Meanwhile the Baptist denomination, which felt that its large constituency in that region called for an institution under its own auspices, founded Williamsburg Institute in 1889, eight years later. The buildings were finely located on a neighboring hill. With abundant local resources which had come through the remarkable development of the rich mining country, large and permanent buildings were erected, and a capable faculty secured, making two institutions in immediate proximity and covering the same ground in their curricula.

As our school was first on the ground, we have felt constrained to continue it, though for some time it has been felt that the special need which called the Association to this locality no longer existed—to any large extent, at least—since the Williamsburg Institute was a thoroughly Christian institution which now provided ample means for Christian education for the entire region. Nevertheless, with varying fortunes, Williamsburg Academy held on its way and has amply justified its life in what it has accomplished for the young people who have sought its instruction.

A disastrous fire which destroyed the girls' dormitory in 1902, made a new building a necessity, with many adjustments involving a much larger future outlay than heretofore; larger than many were beginning to feel was justified in a locality which now had not the original appeal and necessity for its missionary funds.

To maintain the school with a college department as Highland College, meant only the sharpest kind of competition with another denomination, at great cost, without any present adequate missionary call and without any hopeful prospect for its future independence, while the rival institution, equally good in its work and influence, would be abundantly cared for by the immediate constituency of the region.

We have felt, therefore, that we might congratulate ourselves that the Association had practically created another institution, almost a duplicate of our own, setting the pace for high standards and making it willing to relieve us of our load when the old-time necessity for our special work had passed; willing to incorporate our institution with their own and to give our local board of trustees a representation upon theirs. The Association has thus been instrumental in bringing into being and into high efficiency superior educational privileges where there were none. In making this responsibility over to the Williamsburg Institute, the Association receives in funds all that it has expended for its property, which can now be applied where there are pressing needs and no others to meet them.

Our work has been well done. In our disposal of the property upon our own terms and without sacrifice, Christian education meets with no loss.

The church which was organized at the same time in 1881 will continue, and we trust will gain through the cessation of the undue rivalry created by the contending schools.

Prof. Helen C. Morgan. Prof. Morgan, who for thirty-seven years has held the professorship of Latin language and literature in Fisk University, has resigned and taken the position of emeritus professor upon the Carnegie Foundation. Miss Morgan, upon her graduation from Oberlin College—where her father was for so many years one of the most prominent of the faculty—was called to teach in the young Fisk University. Prof. Morgan has not only witnessed its entire period of growth and development into its present strong and honorable place among the colleges of our land, but has also greatly contributed to the high success and usefulness of the institution, in every part of which her ability and influence have been manifest. The record as she leaves is a shining one of noble and consecrated service.

TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS A MISSIONARY TEACHER IN THE SOUTH.

Miss Mary E. Wilcox, who recently died at Grand View, Tenn., had been an able and beloved worker in the Association for twenty-eight years. Miss Wilcox, who was related to the Fields (David Dudley, Cyrus W. and Stephen J.), was marked by an exceptionally strong character. She was graduated from Oberlin College in 1861; was assistant principal in Madison Seminary for some years, and entered the work of the American Missionary Association at Selma, Ala.,

MISS MARY E. WILCOX, A BRAVE TEACHER.

in 1873. She taught in Selma, Ala., for about twelve years, several years in Beaufort, N. C., as principal of a school, where her ability was specially manifested, and at Charleston, S. C. She was principal last at Andersonville, Ga. Death came to her without warning while she was in her home at Grand View, to which she had lately retired. Miss Wilcox has represented the American Missionary Association at different times from the platform of the Association at its annual meetings, and proved herself to be an interesting and very vigorous writer and speaker. Her influence will long be felt in the schools where she labored with great fidelity.

IN THE DEATH of Dr. A. P. Foster and Mr. Charles P. Peirce, both for a long time members of our Executive Committee, we are again reminded of the constant changes realized by those who continue in the work. Dr. Foster became a member of the Executive Committee while he was a pastor in Jersey City and continued to be active in this relation during his nine years' pastorate in Boston. Mr. Peirce, residing in New York, was often able to give special valuable service to the Association.

EX-GOVERNOR BLACK of New York, in a late address before a distinguished audience used these words: "Even at this hour there rises before me a problem whose end no man can foresee.

"It is the Negro problem in the South. It springs from race hostility, the most savage root the human soil produces. Will there be no answer to the old petition? Did humanity finish its work when slavery went down and the Constitution was so opened as to let the light shine on the colored face? Did no other duty spring from that?

"If that is the doctrine that meets your complacent souls you are not worthy offspring of your noble sires. Whatever you may think, your task is not yet through. You should aid, encourage and sustain the men your fathers liberated or else rub out the inscriptions on your monuments and burn the uniforms and trophies of your Grand Army of the Republic."

GEORGIA JUSTICE.

The Legislature of Georgia has passed its promised drastic disfranchisement law aimed at its negro population. As the New York Evening Post truly says, it "is meant to be a measure to close the door of political hope in the faces of one million of its citizens, upon whom Georgia largely depends for its labor, and, therefore, its prosperity and progress. In a republic based on political equality, the negroes of Georgia are henceforth to be ruled without a voice in their government, taxed without representation, and deprived of the most precious weapon for the preservation of political rights—the ballot.

If Georgia had been for years past the scene of serious racial strife; if there had been frequent bloodshed over elections and constant public irritation over race conflicts at the ballot-box; or if certain communities were groaning under black misrule, there would perhaps be some excuse for this new law. As a matter of fact, the white man has for years had everything his own way in Georgia; no negro candidates have been in the field, and no white candidate has felt compelled to cater to the negro vote. The Republican party, to which the negroes have naturally belonged, has been at low ebb; and, therefore, the inner ring of the Democratic party has had things entirely its own way. And yet, the negro has been the convenient, or the only, issue. Let him be as law-abiding as you please; let him show you evidences of that extraordinary rise of his race within forty years—which so good a Southerner as Henry Watterson has described as one of the wonders of our times, or of any times—and he still cannot save himself from being the football of the politicians. He has submitted to disfranchisement in the hope that this would take him out of politics—but always in vain. He is the demagogue's most valuable asset, whether that demagogue be a man of culture and family, like Hoke Smith, or a low boor of the Davis and Vardaman type.

Nevertheless, the negro has pushed his way upwards undismayed, and some recent figures show that, whatever excuse the members of the Georgia Legislature have for disfranchising him, it cannot be one which bears upon his industrial progress. For instance, in 1886 the Georgia negroes owned but 10,000 acres of land; by 1876 they held 457,635 acres, and ten years later 802,939. In 1896 they had passed the million mark, and in 1906 they paid taxes on 1,400,000 acres that they owned outright, and on which they were assessed $7,000,200. Their stock had increased in value in the same forty years from $12,000 to $5,200,000; their city property had gone up from $70,000 to $5,850,000, while the value of their church and school property, from being $100,000, has now become $5,200,000. The assessed value of their property, exclusive of schools and churches, has grown since slavery from $450,000 to $23,216,468. This is the wealth they have created for themselves since they started out in rags and wholly illiterate, in 1865. What else they have contributed to the wealth of Georgia by the labor of their hands probably no man could estimate.

But now their reward for all this is a law which declares that they shall never have a voice in saying how the wealth they have created shall be administered or controlled by the State, which they support with their taxes. This law is patterned after those of other Southern States. Theoretically, any colored man who can read or write, or is intelligent enough to understand the use of the ballot, or who pays taxes on $500 or more, can register and vote. But to the election officers is given the discretion of deciding whether the applicant for registration has a 'proper conception of his duty to his State or his nation.' There is also the test of expounding a clause of the Federal or State Constitution, which has enabled low and worthless white registration officers to disfranchise many men greatly their superiors in knowledge, manners and morals. Such hypocritical subterfuges are merely resorted to in order to preserve the fiction of Constitutionality.

Nothing startling will, of course, follow the adoption of this law. The negroes have not yet learned the value of unions, of organization, of lawful agitation. The words general strike, or boycott, or the other terms that describe the ways inferior races, serfs and oppressed people have found of making their masters uneasy in wrong, mean but little to them as yet. How will it be fifty or a hundred years hence? None of these Georgia legislators, we venture to say, has thought of that; few can see beyond their noses, and still fewer know how to measure economic changes which occur right before their eyes. But that is when the test of the law will come. He who thinks that the negro will submit forever, unknowing of his strength, reckons without a knowledge of human nature. Only total enslavement, with the destroying of every colored school child's text-book that tells of 1776, could promise permanent subjection."

It is idle to expect much good from a class of men to whom society shall say: You shall always be foreign to our life. The meanest of our race shall scorn to associate with the noblest of yours. We are forced to concede to you the privileges of the school and of the church, but you must hold them in separation—not our school, not our church. You may learn handicraft, but not statecraft. You may own property and pay taxes, but we will drive you from the ballot-box, or else will manage to ignore your votes. Your interests shall not be considered as belonging to the public weal, and in the administration of public affairs you shall have no part. The Christian Church recognizes no distinction between the two in regard to the divine grace and love. Christian society is bound to include both in its esteem and sympathy.—Julia Ward Howe.

CASTE. "With all our vaunted emancipation from earlier intolerance, there is one note in our modern life which ought to make a Christian people profoundly ashamed. And that is our bondage to the spirit of caste. We compare ourselves complacently, here in America, with races and lands in which—as in China or India—such civilization as they possess is imperiously dominated by the spirit of caste. In some cities in India, not a great while ago, the Pariah caste was driven from the town at three o'clock in the afternoon and the gates of the city closed, lest the shadow of a Pariah might fall upon a Brahman. 'Monstrous and grotesque custom,' we cry, 'with its inhuman dishonor of some of God's children!' Yes, my brother—but will you tell me how it differs in essence from that mental attitude or that wonted manner with which most of us bear ourselves toward a negro or a Chinaman? Are most of us able to find ourselves beside one of these, or any of their like, of whatever alien race or land, without betraying our repugnance, and, too often, downright antagonism? In fact, the only difference between our conception or our estimate of caste and that of our forefathers consists in its narrowness and its ignorance."—Bishop Potter.

Porto Rico.

LETTER FROM REV. OTTO J. SCHEIBE, HUMACAO, P. R.

At this writing I am beginning my third year's work in Porto Rico. The two years spent in Porto Rico have been years of blessing, and certainly have been the best years of my life.

Some of the new features of the work are Bible classes. At Humacao I have a class of ten bright, intelligent young people to meet at our house every Saturday evening for Bible study. We are studying "The Life of Christ" now. This is real work, and they are hard at it. I had a long table made for our use, and, with a blackboard, we spend an hour of hard work, which they all enjoy. I have work laid out for four courses—first, "Life of Christ"; second, "Acts and Epistles"; third, "Old Testament History"; fourth, "Church History." This, I believe, will lay the foundation for our church work. From this class we can get intelligent and equipped Sunday-school teachers and workers.

At Yabucoa and Juncos I have a class of about eight, and will begin this month at every visit to teach the class. I have great expectation from these classes.

At our last communion at Humacao we received into church membership thirteen; of this number a young man and young lady of the better classes—bright, earnest young Christians. The young lady for a long time sang in the Catholic church choir, and now she sings for us. I have so many calls and so much work that all my time is taken up. My week's programme is much like the following: Tuesday, Las Piedras or other points; Wednesday, services at Humacao; Thursday, one week at Yabucoa and the next at Juncos; Friday, one week at Maunabo and the other at Collores; Saturday, Bible class; Sunday, Sunday-school at Humacao, Playa afternoon, and evening service at Humacao; Monday, "rest"—rest in writing letters. Then I have two appointments in the country that I make every month during moonlight; one is up in the hills or mountains, the other at Florida. There they clean out the cigar factory for me and put in lights and benches. The attendance is from eighty to one hundred.

Now, as I have told you what has been done and what we are doing in our field, I am going to say something about the needs of the field. There is a great part of my field untouched. I have been over it at different times, but as I am only one, I cannot be everywhere. If you will take your map of Porto Rico, you will find that between the road from Juncos to Humacao and the mountains is a very wide valley, and a road that follows a river. That was the old road from Juncos and Naguabo, on which there are three towns—Mango, Pueblo Rio and Boqueron. These three towns, with Las Piedras, would make a good field for a helper, and not only the towns but the country there also. No section in the country has more people than that valley; the land is owned by them in farms of from four to thirty acres. They are a good class of people, and they are entirely without the gospel—not even the Catholic church has reached them, which will make the work easier for us, in a way. I am very much burdened about this part of the field.

I am also starting a Sunday-school at the playa. The best young people of the playa are in attendance at my meetings.

Macario—a fine Christian character—is doing excellent work at Yabucoa.

PUPILS IN BLANCHE KELLOGG INSTITUTE, SANTURCE, PORTO RICO.

WE HOPE to be able, in our next number, to give the picture of our new school building and chapel, which are in the process of erection at Santurce. The Christian Endeavorers, who have been interested in this school, will be glad to know that their contributions have helped to make these new buildings possible. We need $3,000 more to complete and furnish the buildings. The pupils at Santurce are so greatly interested in the progress of the improvements that they write us weekly expressing their satisfaction. The pictures will introduce some of these pupils to our readers.

A few items gathered from a monthly examination: The principal cause of the Revolution, "Evacuation without Representation." "St. Petersburg was built by St. Peter, and is the capital of Austria-Hungry." "Cæsar, William Tell and Peter the Great were all great poets!" This last, only one among many similar answers, made me decide to give up my attempts at "correlation" and stick to plain surface soil productions, etc.: "The conditions of Palestine is very bad because it is situated on the Lena river and the people drink the water and it makes them sick and they die and think it will help them." Both geography and grammar seem to be badly mixed here. These brilliances are from the Anglo-Saxon "superior" race, Hawaii.

On June 17th, at a special meeting of the Dr. Doremus Scudder. Hawaiian Board, Dr. Scudder resigned as Secretary. The reason for the change from the position as Secretary is found in the relation of the Central Union Church to the entire work of the Islands.

The picture of students in "Mid-Pacific Institute," Hawaii, is interesting, showing in a small group nineteen varieties of our common human race. They will illustrate the contention of the recent work of Jean Finot on "Race Prejudice," translated from the French—the last word on "Races." These young people under the American flag are: Pure Chinese, Pure Hawaiian, Pure Japanese, Pure Korean, Pure Portuguese, Part Filipino Part Hawaiian, Part French Part Portuguese, Part Norwegian Part Hawaiian, Part Chinese Part Hawaiian, Part Japanese Part Hawaiian, Part Anglo-Saxon Part Hawaiian. This does not exhaust the list of mixtures in the institute.

The Mid-Pacific Institute. This institution has just been launched at Hawaii with a fine equipment for academic and industrial training. It will provide Christian education for both sexes. Dormitories are now in the process of erection. The purpose is to take those elements of the population which by tradition and habits of life are farthest removed from American Christian ideals and by the influence of the Christian home, and by the environment and educational forces to lead them into Christian life and into the appreciation of Christian civilization. The Friend, for July, says:

Here is to arise a school, set in the midst of a landscape of surpassing beauty, in a climate of unusual charm, from which we trust will go forth a long succession of those who shall be indeed "heralds of truth" to the millions of Asia. Their training will be in the English language, which will unlock for them the vast treasure houses of inspiration, but they are to be guided as well to an accurate knowledge of those "mother tongues," which will enable them, in turn, to dispense the treasure found to multitudes in darkness who await their coming. They are to be not only missionaries of spiritual truth, but stimulators of all healthful scientific research and application, advocates of a sound mind in a sound body, true fruitage of a wise athletic training; the builders of a pure and beautiful home-life; chivalrous supporters of a lofty type of womanhood; wise discoverers of the hidden resources of nature. Asia needs these "all round" missionaries. It will be the privilege and duty of our Institute to furnish such.

The day of the "divided life" of the races is passing away. China's "great wall" in decay, with its gaping rents, and its masses of useless material, is a fitting figure of the downfall which awaits those humanly devised but not divinely appointed barriers between the races. We have not yet, by any means, entered into the free glory of the millennium, but there is a flushing of the eastern sky of the race which is a harbinger of a brighter day. We have a great deal still to learn about the equality of mankind, but we are on the road which leads to the truth. We believe that, perhaps above all else, the message of Hawaii to the wide world is that equal opportunity should be given to all, and that the "yellow peril," and all similar perils, are most successfully met and vanquished by the spirit of love and justice. To an honorable place in this practical translation into daily life of the gospel of good will to all men the Mid-Pacific Institute would seem to have a legitimate call, and this alone would justify and establish its reason of being.

The South.

COMMENCEMENT AT JOSEPH K. BRICK SCHOOL, ENFIELD, N. C.

ISADORE MARTIN.

Probably the most interesting part of the year at the Joseph K. Brick School is the commencement season. At no other time do such crowds gather here. At no other time is such genuine interest manifested in the work we are trying to do. It is an inspiring occasion, and some who come out of idle curiosity go away converted, and with the determination to see that their children, too, shall enjoy the privileges which this institution offers.

The twelfth anniversary exercises were no less interesting than those of previous years, and, if we are to judge by the size of the crowd present at each one of the exercises and by the many complimentary remarks made by the visiting friends, they were the best ever held here.

On Friday evening, May 24, the exercises of the literary societies of the school were held. An address was delivered by Mr. Thomas J. Calloway, chairman of the executive committee of the Negro exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition.

PRINCIPAL AND TEACHERS IN JOSEPH K. BRICK SCHOOL, ENFIELD, N. C.

One of the pleasantest features of commencement week occurred on Saturday evening, May 25. Ever since the organization of the school, whenever he has visited us, the Rev. Dr. A. F. Beard has been invited to meet the teachers in an informal way, at which time he would give an interesting and helpful talk on some subject. He was asked on this occasion to meet the teachers in the sitting-room in Benedict Hall and give them some reminiscences. When he had finished his very interesting talk, the principal, in behalf of the teachers, presented him with a beautiful loving cup as a token of their love and esteem. In response to the presentation address, Dr. Beard assured the teachers of his great appreciation of their gift, and that this testimonial of their esteem would ever be kept and treasured. As the little company dispersed for the night, it was hard to tell who seemed the happier, the recipient or the givers.

On Sunday morning, May 26, the baccalaureate sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. A. F. Beard, of the American Missionary Association. Seldom have we had a more able and interesting sermon than was preached on this occasion. The young people were exhorted to carry the spirit of helpfulness to where they would be willing to sacrifice themselves in order to uplift others; to where they would be willing to do a great deal of unappreciated work and thankless service, it may be, for those who do not realize their needs, and who must be helped to see their needs before they will ever try to meet them. If those who have gone out to meet the great problems of life will but keep in mind the excellent sermon which they heard on this day, they will not fail in life.

Dr. Beard spoke again in the evening. He tried to impress upon his hearers the necessity of thoroughly preparing themselves for their life's work. All the distinguished men of our land and all other lands have been men who prepared themselves; men who were ready when the hour came.

Monday night, May 27, was given over to the little folks. Instead of the usual recitations and declamations an operetta, "The Jolly Picnic Party," was rendered. The choruses and those who had solo parts showed that they had been thoroughly drilled. The large audience appreciated the efforts of the young people and did not hesitate to make known their feelings.

The exhibition of the grammar grades was held on Tuesday night, May 28, when the recitations, declamations and musical numbers greatly pleased another large audience, which filled the main auditorium and balcony.

The Rev. R. B. Johns adds:

Commencement day was fair and beautiful. As was the day so was the environment. The buildings, always fair to look upon, indicative of the wisdom that planned and located them, reflected the mellow sunlight in cheery welcomes to the people that came from everywhere. The campus, always clean and attractive, with its paths and drives, and lines of trees and flower spaces, seemed to say: "Every place that the sole of your foot treads upon, that [for today] I have given you." Everybody seemed to take the proffer seriously, and the home-feeling in no sense shaded off till late the following day.

In the morning there was much "hurrying to and fro," as is usual on such occasions, but at the time for the opening of the program all present were ready. Some, however, were not present. A railroad train, with visitors due at about 9:30 standard time, caused a long waiting by arriving at 9:30 C. P. T.—colored people's time. "C. P. T." is usually an hour or more later than standard time. It ought to be said, however, that J. K. B. School—like all American Missionary Association institutions—uses standard time and keeps to it with accurate promptness.

The assembly listened to a specially fine address on "The Uses of Literature," by Prof. G. E. Davis, Acting President of Biddle University, a man who to education adds culture, and to culture genuine refinement. Among other excellent thoughts was, "The Power of Literature to Liberalize." Literature is an empowering force, and men wonted in it are more capable of using power. A few well-chosen words commending the great general work of the American Missionary Association closed an admirable address, after which Principal Inborden presented the diplomas, and so ended the interesting "commencement day."

COTTAGE GROVE INDUSTRIAL ACADEMY, NIXBURG, ALA.

J. R. SAVAGE, PRINCIPAL.

Environment and opportunity, or may be better, lack of opportunity, have operated to make the rural Negro very different from his brother of the city. In some respects his condition is suggestive of that of the mountain whites, who are still far in arrears of the other fellows of their race. The rural Negro is away in the background of civilization; yet among the fleshpots of Egypt. In most things he is still a superstitious, credulous child, but with all the promise and potency of a vigorous, fruitful manhood. He constitutes a virgin field for missionary endeavor, a field uncontaminated by many of the evil influences that usually retard the work of Christian education.

It is not an unmixed evil that the majority of the Negro people are living under rural conditions. This is, to my mind, one of the hopeful phases of the problem of bettering the race. If the benign influences of Christian civilization could be brought to bear upon these rural children they would become the leaven of the race. Give them schools, churches, libraries, and teach them the joy and dignity of labor, and so far from being the wards of the nation, they will become its bulwarks.

The Cottage Grove Academy, organized some seven or eight years ago in one of the most thickly populated and densely ignorant rural communities in the South, is an earnest of what may be done with very modest outlay. The school is the offspring of the union of two log cabin community schools.

It commands a wide stretch of rural territory, about forty by sixty miles, untraversed by railroads. In the county in which the school is located there are not exceeding ten or fifteen miles of railroad and no city.

I think the Cottage Grove work is in a settlement that is as truly rural as it is possible for a place to be. It is away in the backwoods, far distant from cities, and beyond the noise of trains. The people are all farmers and many of them are of the "one gallus" type. Prior to the coming of the Academy the schools, where there were any, were of the three or four months variety, and were taught in miserable log cabins, or in old open churches. Religious services were held once a month, and consisted almost wholly in noisy, emotional demonstrations.

Excepting a few buildings that were once occupied by white people, the houses were the one-room, and the double-pen log cabin, occasionally with a side room of plank. There was, as a rule, no yard nor enclosure about these houses; a few antiquated bedsteads, some chairs and stools, maybe a bureau, a cook-stove and a table, made up the house furniture. The children and old people harmonized with this environment, unwashed, half-clad, ill fed—they were veritable Topsy. Not a few of the people, old and young, girls and women, wore shoes only in the heart of winter. On Sundays, when they appeared at their best, there was little regard for propriety or blending of colors; the men sometimes showing up in their overalls, and often, like the minister, without a collar. Two or three boys had found the way out of this darkness to the light, owing to the influence of some young people who spent their college vacation teaching in the community. Here and there a change is coming over this picture, and no other agency has entered to bring it about save the Academy. In adjoining communities, where the influence of the school has not yet gone, the picture is practically unchanged.

THE OLD HOME.

The Academy building and grounds stand out in sharp contrast to the old dilapidated log cabins whence they sprang. Indeed, our new school building is modern in appointments and the campus is naturally beautiful and can easily be made most attractive. The churches nearest the school have been ceiled and sashes put in. The church service is still held only once a month, and the character of it is not much changed, but a progressive Sunday-school is maintained and a midweek prayer-service, a Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor and a Young Men's Christian Association are preparing the way for intelligent worship and practical religion.

THE NEW HOME.

The one and two-room log cabin is disappearing and cottages with from three to six rooms are taking their place. In many instances where a new building has not been erected, the old building has been enlarged and improved. Some of these homes are enclosed by neat fences, and the yards are well kept, shade trees, flowers and shrubbery being cultivated. Upon a recent visit I observed a plain suite of furniture in one home, broken suites in several homes, also wall pictures, center tables, and three organs.

Our pupils are more tidy and cleanly in their person and dress and are more correct in their bearing and behavior. We have taken some of them into our school home, where they have learned many useful lessons.

This practical experience they have turned to good account when returning home. I think of a girl who, upon going from us, insisted upon having family devotions in her home, as she had enjoyed and been helped by this service at the school. During their last year we require our pupils to board in our select home; but many of our patrons, observing the good effect of this requirement upon these pupils, have applied to place some of their children with us earlier. It is a part of the Cottage Grove idea to erect several cottages where our pupils may live with a teacher in family-size groups, performing all the duties and living under the wholesome restraint of a well-regulated Christian home. This, I believe, is one of the most direct and effective ways of reaching and bettering the home life of our patrons.

Out of this material in the rough, in the course of seven or eight years, we have prepared several young people who promise to live useful lives. Three passed the rigid test for license to teach in this State, and three are pursuing further study in the two leading institutions in the State.

Many more earnest students, who have profited by the instruction of the academy, have assumed the responsibilities of life, or are working their way to further study in a higher institution. Thus the way is pointed. Some will take up the work of teaching in the rural district; and having been reared and educated there, they become the most successful rural teachers; others will push forward, seeking higher preparation for larger spheres of usefulness; many will settle down intelligent, prosperous rural citizens.

THE FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY AT TALLADEGA COLLEGE AND ITS COMMENCEMENT.

MISS ESTHER A. BARNES.

An occasion of unusual interest in Talladega was the fortieth anniversary, which was celebrated at Commencement. A strong contrast presented itself between what was at first and what now is. Forty years ago, Swayne Hall, with its classic white columns, built before the war for a white school, was purchased for the Negro college. The solidly built classrooms were used then as they are now, but the upper floor was divided into odd little sleeping-rooms with low partitions between them, over which the occupants could toss things or exchange conversation. A few girls and a little group of teachers found shelter in an old mansion house. And that was all the school's equipment. Now there are two large dormitories, for young men and young women, a building for the lower grades, a cottage for model housekeeping, a chapel, a library, homes for professors, buildings for industrial training and three farms—given by generous Northern donors. All these answered urgent needs, for it is the Talladega way to begin work first and get the equipment later. The theological department is a striking illustration of this. For thirty years the "chamber of the prophets," an upper room in Dr. Andrews's dwelling, has sent out strong, earnest men to the pastorate all over the South and elsewhere. Now the alumni and friends are enthusiastically pushing the Andrews Theological Hall. Nurse-training has begun, and a hospital in a dwelling-house has saved several lives this year by successful operations. Now a hospital is to be provided, and a science building, no less needed, it is hoped will be soon added. The institution is largely indebted for these improvements to the zeal and ability of Dean Metcalf and President Nyce.

The personnel of the student body is changed even more than the buildings. Forty years ago old people, from the recent slave cabins, sat beside their grandchildren puzzling over the mystic symbols of the alphabet, the key to the white man's world of knowledge. Alas! not for them were the stores of earthly learning. They had a reward, indeed. Pushed forward by their faithful hands, the young people of their race have entered that realm of knowledge and walk therein with confident feet. Not the English tongue alone, but Latin, Greek and German have unlocked their treasures to these dark, eager eyes. As the ability of the people and the ambition of students have increased, courses of study have been enlarged and multiplied, till now there are graduates every year from the Normal, Scientific, Classical and Theological courses.

The exercises of the week were full of interest. Class Day pleasantries were of the usual order, varied by the presentation to the Juniors of a wooden spoon. The Senior who presented it wove for it a marvelous history, beginning with an acorn intrusted by the immortal gods to an African tribe, and ending with an appeal to their American descendants to carry the light of civilization to the land of their ancestors. At the different exercises there were presented several thoughtful essays and orations. "Municipal Ownership of Public Utilities," "Is the Church a Failure?" "Uses and Abuses of Wealth," "Child Labor in the United States," were some of the topics treated in a masterly way. The concert on Monday night was unusually fine, a large chorus singing choruses from Handel's Messiah with spirit and precision. All through the Commencement there was music from the Jubilee Club, their sweet voices mingling in exquisite harmony on the songs which are their heritage. Saturday was People's Day, and the chapel was occupied by a body of colored farmers, who listened intently to a Southern white man's very practical and instructive talk on cotton-raising. They also discussed needed reforms among themselves, especially in the line of temperance and good morals. Being shown about the buildings, they seemed specially impressed with the dainty work of the sewing class. The Baccalaureate sermon, by Dr. Chalmers, of Worcester, Mass., could never be forgotten by the hearers. The three standards of life were: "What's mine is mine, and what's yours is mine if I can get it," the robber's principle; "What's mine is mine, and what's yours is yours," the priest's and Levite's principle; "What's yours is yours, and what's mine is yours if you need it," the principle of the Good Samaritan. Surely to every hearer the third standard seemed the only one to live for.

But the crown of all was the historical address by Dr. Beard, showing the far-sighted policy of providing educated leaders for the colored race, the fitness of the classics for this purpose, the necessity of teachers standing with, not above, those they came to help, and the inevitable misunderstanding of this attitude by outsiders. Both he and Dr. Ward, of The Independent, urged Talladega to be faithful to her high calling of thorough scholarship. Led by their advice, she will hope in the next forty years to become second to no college in the Southland.

COMMENCEMENT AT TILLOTSON.

REV. J. I. DONALDSON,

Pastor Plymouth Congregational Church, Dallas, Texas.

The very interesting exercises at Tillotson College Commencement this year began with the final examinations in all the branches taught in this institution, Wednesday, May 22d; these lasted through Friday of the same week. Friday night the President's reception to the graduating class was held in the beautiful reception rooms of the Girls' Dormitory. This was an unusually inspiring occasion.

Sunday morning, May 26th, at 10.30 o'clock, after listening to the very inspiring music, "A New Heaven and a New Earth," and the "Te Deum Laudamus," everyone listened with rapt attention to the Baccalaureate Sermon of President I. M. Agard, from Deut. 33:25, "As thy days, so shall thy strength be." This sermon was ably prepared, and forcefully delivered. Following the sermon was the "Hallelujah Chorus," sung most impressively by the large chorus class of the College.

Tuesday and Wednesday the people's attention was almost entirely devoted to viewing the exhibitions in the industrial department of the school. This was, indeed, interesting, and the displays in the girls' department were exceptionally well done; neatness and accuracy were everywhere evident.

The Class Day exercises, Tuesday morning, were fruitful of good things. Rev. R. J. Briggs, D D., of the First Congregational Church of Austin, delivered a magnificent address in his own masterful way.

Tuesday afternoon was partially taken up with the business meeting of the Alumni. At this meeting, among many other interesting things that were done, the Alumni decided to raise, by the first of next September, $150 toward securing a printing press for the College. Sixteen dollars of this money was raised in cash at this meeting.

It is everywhere observable that Tillotson College has a very industrious, efficient and enthusiastic Christian President in the person of Dr. I. M. Agard, and that he has surrounding him an excellent corps of teachers. The outlook for Tillotson's usefulness was never brighter than now. The Alumni went away highly pleased and filled with hope for the future of the school.

COMMENCEMENT AT TOUGALOO UNIVERSITY.

(Tougaloo was happy in the presence of Rev. ERNEST BOURNE ALLEN of Toledo, Ohio, who gave the Commencement Address. We are indebted to him for the following note.)

Have you ever been to a Tougaloo commencement? You have a treat in store. To those who see this splendid institution she needs no encomium. To those who read her notable history she looms large on the horizon of Christian education. Tougaloo is a typical New England college done in black! She has some points of superiority, to be sure, over her staid Eastern prototype,—extended courses in manual training, for example, not to speak of other things in the way of warmth and color! In spirit, in esprit de corps, purpose, the personnel of her teachers, and in fruitage, she has the Pilgrim earmarks.

Twenty years of sane, sweet, strong leadership have been the gift of President and Mrs. Woodworth to the cause of Negro uplift and the settlement of all those vexed questions which were the aftermath of the war. For eleven years Dr. and Mrs. Hamlin have given the rich treasures of their lives to the South and to the Kingdom. Ten thousand students, in these past years, have had a term—a year or longer—in that lifting, inspiring life on the campus. Who can estimate the fruitage? If men and women with money are looking for a safe and rich place for the investment of money, here is a rare opportunity. With its noble history a prophecy of the future, its present equipment and standing an ample leverage, Tougaloo ought to have an endowment. Why let an institution of such character, purpose, service, and opportunity lack the additional power which endowment would bring?

Whatever investment you are able to make, here is call for student aid, buildings, equipment, books, tools, apparatus. This is a plea for the sake of the Kingdom, by one who has been on the ground, to the men and women who can help, and is made without its being requested!
